ABOUT ME

I am a Game Design and Development student with a strong interest in software engineering and interactive technologies. My academic background, together with previous studies in Telecommunications Engineering, has provided me with a solid technical foundation and a curiosity for complex systems. During my studies, I have worked on a variety of projects, developing my programming, problem-solving, and teamwork skills. I am a motivated and proactive learner, currently seeking an internship where I can continue growing as a software engineer and contribute to real-world projects.
